Changing Lives One Child at a Time

Luis

Testimony of Brian Safarian

During my first trip with Feed My Sheep to Honduras, in April 2005, I worked on a project putting food packages together to hand out in the barrio in San Pedro Sula. As you can imagine, the children of the barrio were very interested in what we were doing, and they hung around the church watching us work.

As I was working, two boys in particular caught my eye. They were brothers named Eduardo and Luis, about 9 and 5 years old, respectively. I struck up several conversations with them (the best I could, considering they didn't speak English and I don't speak Spanish!)

When I got back to the United States, I couldn't get these boys out of my mind. I felt God had introduced them to me for a reason. I told my wife about the boys when I returned, and she agreed that we needed to help them in some way.

When I returned to Honduras in October of that year, I met with them and their mother to try to gain an understanding of what they needed and explained to them that God had laid it on mine and my wife's hearts that we were to help them. It seemed that education was their greatest need. To meet this need, we arranged to send them to a private, Christian, bilingual school, called ABS (Academic Bilingual Shalom). We pay for their tuition, school uniforms and extracurricular fees, transportation to and from the barrio and tutors as needed.

Eduardo and Luis have been attending ABS since the fall of 2005. They are 14 and 10 years old now, have good grades, are becoming fluent in English and have a good understanding about God. Their futures, both physical and spiritual are much brighter now.
